Voting Rights

President Johnson's bill on voting rights is going to be enacted into law. The pressures for its passage are too great to be overcome by the opposition in the Southern states.

That the bill is not ideal legislation is clear. It aims to knock out obstructions which some of the Southern states have raised to prevent Negroes from voting. It does not undertake to set up voting procedures which would prevent discrimination against voters because of race or color or creed everywhere. It is rather hasty legislation and while it is being argued that it is not well conceived, the problems of any effective enactment are considerable in a freedom-conscious America whose basic law gives the states considerable autonomy in judging voter eligibility.

The bill would ban literacy tests in states where less than 50 per cent of the eligible adult population was registered or voted in last November's election. Such an act would automatically apply to Alabama. Mississippi. Georgia. Louisiana. South Carolina, Virginia and to 34 counties in North Carolina. The attorney general would be authorized to abolish literacy tests in those states and counties for 10 years. They could escape the law's application by proving to a three-judge federal court in the District of Columbia that they have not discriminated for 10 years.

This must seem a long way around to get at a race problem that could be attacked directly but the difficulties of overcoming perversion of the constitution where there's a public desire to do it are clear. The 15th Amendment to the Constitution, upon which the Johnson Bill is based, promised that "the right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude." but this amendment was voted 95 years ago in the Grant administration and it's not effective in Dixie yet.

President Johnson asked his legal aides for a bill to prevent the barring of Negro voters that would be completely legal and that couldn't be successfully challenged in the South on constitutional grounds, nor used as one more anchor for delay while it went through interminable testing.

The 15th Amendment, enacted after the Civil War by Reconstructionists, gave Congress the power to enforce equal voting rights through legislation, which, yards were unable to buy en- April?" MATERIAL Finest in WORKMANSHIP

SO YOU ARE GOING TO BUILD ...

Did You Know That:

- X Many building materials and lumber are similar in appearance but some are cheaper in price . . . they are also of a cheaper quality.
- Green lumber loses 75% of its nail holding power when it dries out.

A green 8 foot stud, when it is first cut may con-

- tain as much as three gallons of water. There are three kinds of plywood sheathing.
- There are two kinds of plywood for floors, one of which is puncture-proof.

- There are three important thicknesses of insulation . . . and where to use them. For a few dollars more per 100 square feet, you
- can buy a 300 pound per square asphalt shingle with a 25 year Warranty in writing instead of shingles cut from "roll" stock.
- Our West Coast Lumber is grade stamped or grade marked at the mill before it is loaded so you can know exactly what you are purchasing.
- 1/2 5/8 inch exterior plywood is a must for kitchen and bathroom floors.
- The weakness of human nature is such that people will ask the price of lumber and building materials without inspecting the items, yet spend considerable time in purchasing a pair of shoes. a cut of meat, or an article of clothing, each of which costs twenty to twenty-five times LESS than lumber per thousand feet.

WHY?

The Herlong-Curtis ELDERCARE Bill is the best answer to the health care needs of people over 65. It also has gained more public support in just a few weeks since its introduction than other health-carefor-the-elderly legislation now before Congress. Yet ELDERCARE has not been given a public hearing and members of Congress may not even get a chance to vote on it. WHY?

ELDERCARE OFFERS BETTER CARE THAN MEDICARE. ELDERCARE IS NOT A POLITICAL APPROACH. IT'S BI-PARTISANI

ELDERCARE - MORE BENEFITS:

ELDERCARE is designed to provide a wide range of hospital and medical services, including physician's care, surgical costs, drugs, hospital and nursing home charges. Medicare would provide only limited hospital and nursing home care, some diagnostic services and some nursing care at home.

ELDERCARE - LESS COST:

It would not require a new payroll tax. Because ELDERCARE helps only the elderly who need help, it would cost less. Medicare would increase payroll taxes on wage earners for benefits to everyone over 65, including the wealthy. Its costs would be enormous.

WHY isn't ELDERCARE being given a fair and open hearing?

WHY isn't the public entitled to know about all the proposals being considered?

Time Is Running Out.

Write Your Congressmen and Senators Today. Urge Them To Support ELDERCARE (H.R. 3727).

They are familiar now and do not create the wonder that the first plane in the Upper Peninsula did 43 years ago, although they're much more worthy of it.

When the Air Force plays host to civilian groups on tours of its facilities some of the mystery of the Strategic Air Command unfolds. SAC operates Sawyer Air Force Base and has as a tenant the 62nd Fighter Interceptor Squadron of the Air Defense Command, which guards America's frontiers while SAC executes American global strategy in air defense.
